Enrollment in Schools Feeding A.T.H.S. Show Double Growth by 1963

T. R. Birkhead Gives Figures Based on Population

The proposed enlargement of the Antioch Township High school is based on conservative figures which show that the district may have to provide for 760 students by 1963.

Principal T. R. Birkhead has compiled figures based on present enrollment of feeder grade schools and their prospective future enrollment and they all show a gradual increase.

The figures are presented in five charts which he has shown to people in the district by way of explanation of the needs of the school and a bond issue to provide for those needs.

The first chart shows present enrollment the nine feeder schools, Antioch, Channel Lake, Grass Lake, Emmons, Lake Villa, Oakland, Millburn, Hickory and St. Peter's.

That the tabulation prepared last October was conservative is shown by the fact that the schools had an eighth grade enrollment then of 93 and recently 97 took the entrance examination for high school.

Eight years from now the freshman class will have jumped from 93 to 167 on the basis of those now actually in school.

Next, Principal Birkhead took the mortality rate as between classes in the high school from 1943 to 1949 and this showed the percentage of drop from freshmen to sophomores of 2.9 per cent; sophomores to juniors, 10.1 per cent; and from juniors to seniors 17.2 per cent. Even with this loss the enrollment in the high school increased from 215 in 1943 to 285 in 1949.

Taking these two tables to project the enrollment up to and including 1957 it was seen that the enrollment for the entire school will increase from 297 this year to 494 in 1957. (See Table III with percentage of drop between classes as noted).

Principal Birkhead next took the number of births in Lake county over a four-year period (Table IV) through the number of pupils entering first grade obtained the percentage of children born in the high school district on the basis of county totals.

It was revealed that 5.78 percent of children born in Lake county are in this high school district.

On this basis the beginning class enrollments for the district next fall will be 151; in 1951—149; 1952—185; 1953—215; 1954—221; and 1955—223.

These carried through into high school means an enrollment in 1958 of 522; 1959—553; 1960—581; 1961—633; 1962—699 and 1963—760.

This accounts for a normal growth and does not take into consideration any unusual expansion such as experienced in such areas as Round Lake.

The board of education is providing for additional building facilities in anticipating needs and preparing for them now.

Charles F. Barthel, 92, Well Known Resident of North Avenue Expires

Charles F. Barthel, 92, died at 7:25 p. m. Sunday at his home on North ave., following a lingering illness. He was widely known in this community.

He was born Aug. 26, 1857 in Saxony, Germany, and came to the United States at the age of 12 years. He lived in East Stroudsburg, Pa., Scranton, Pa., Chicago, Ill., and Kenosha, Wis., before coming to Antioch 57 years ago.

Mr. Barthel was a retired carpenter.

He is survived by two sons, William L. Barthel and Frederick A. Barthel of Salem, Wis., and a daughter, Mrs. Ethel M. Anderson of the home. There are 21 grandchildren, 17 great grandchildren and 9 great great grandchildren. Four sons, Arthur, Ray, Olwin and Lynn, and a daughter, Charlotte preceded him in death.

Mrs. John Horan Jr. to Head Poppy day Sales On Saturday, May 27

Winning Contest Posters to Be Entered in State
Poster Contest

Mrs. John Horan, Jr., poppy chairman for Antioch Unit 748, and her committee are well underway for Poppy Day, which will be held on Saturday, May 27. It is expected that again this year three quarters of a million more poppies will be sold in Illinois than in any other state.

The little red flowers, replicas of the Flanders poppy, assembled by hospitalized veterans throughout Illinois for months past are ready, waiting for May 27, when every man, woman and child in Antioch will be asked to wear one in memory of America's heroes, living and dead.

The proceeds from the annual sale of poppies are used exclusively for service to veterans and their families and for community emergencies.

Mrs. Floyd Horton, unit president wishes to remind the public that the hospitalized veterans, many of whom will live within hospital walls for their remaining years, are the only paid workers on the Auxiliary's poppy program, and that the remuneration received during poppy making time is the only means for extra money.

The American Legion Auxiliary sponsors an annual poppy poster contest so arranged that pupils of all ages may take part. Mrs. Horan states 50 posters were submitted in the first class, 17 in the second class and one in the third class which is the High School group.

The winning posters will be entered in the State contest in September.

The judging was held Tuesday, May 2, in the Legion home, the judges were Steve Pacini, Barney Nevelier and Mrs. Arthur Meyers. In class one Donald Wertz was first; Richard Veek, 2nd and Donna Mae Gibbs honorable mention.

In class II Vic Lubkeman, 1st; Nancy Rentner 2nd and Fred Clark honorable mention. Ann McMillen was the only contestant in the 3rd class.

Armed Forces Day to Be Observed in Antioch on Saturday, May 20

Antioch residents and businessmen are asked to give recognition to Armed Forces Day which has been set for Saturday, May 20, by proclamation of President Truman.

Although most groups, especially church groups, will not be meeting on that day they have been asked to give recognition to the event at their nearest meeting before or afterward.

It is obvious that May 20th will not be a day on which all civic groups can conveniently assist in the observance of the occasion, so the week of May 15 will be set aside in the village of Antioch, and all organizations are urged to make their meetings that week occasions for recognizing the Armed Forces.

Col. S. S. Ballentine met with President James McMillen and a committee of Antioch citizens last Thursday in discussing the possibility of a public celebration. Because of the custom of a Memorial Day celebration which will come only 10 days later the local group found that it would not be possible to prepare a community program.

Mayor McMillen has asked the schools and various groups to give recognition in some way to the occasion.

Armed Forces Day is a combination of Navy Day, Army Day, and days devoted to recognition of other branches of the armed forces. The primary aims of the occasion is to inform the people of the state of their national defense forces and to make clear the extent of the uniformation of the several branches.

There will be open house at the Great Lakes Naval Training center May 20, when all activities will be demonstrated and tours taken of the center. There will be a gala military review where persons of national stature will be present.

The army is planning a similar celebration at Fort Sheridan.

William H. Rhoades, 38, Of Lake Villa Dies Of Skull Fracture Friday

William H. Rhoades, 38, of Lake Villa, died at 7 a. m. Friday, April 28 in Victory Memorial hospital. He suffered a skull fracture in an accident at the Johns-Manville plant and death was the result.

Mr. Rhoades was born December 26, 1911, at Hammond, Ind., and moved to Lake Villa 31 years ago. He was a member of the Lake Villa fire department; a member of Local No. 60 of the International Chemical Workers union, and had worked at the Johns-Manville plant since 1936.

He is survived by his mother, Katherine Rhoades and a brother, Jack, of Lake Villa; three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Karolous, and Mrs. Catherine Ladewig, of Lake Villa and Mrs. Olive Scott of Gurnee. His father preceded him in death.

The funeral service was held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Strang funeral home in Antioch with the Rev. Robert Harrison, Lake Villa in charge. Burial was in Angola cemetery.

Boy Scouts Rehearse For Circus on May 13 At Libertyville School

Don't be alarmed at those blood-curdling war whoops you may hear the next ten days. Your scalp is safe! The "Indians" will probably be some of our local Boy Scouts who are rehearsing for a Boy Scout Circus to be held at the High School in Libertyville on Saturday night, May 13.

The scouts are staging plenty of action in addition to the Indians. The spectators will see and hear a whole retinue of clowns, the Knights of King Arthur's Round Table, the Kenilworth Fife and Drum Corps, an alive Statue of Liberty, bridges and towers built and rebuilt, near drownings, near electrocutions, pyramiding, and an all-round demonstration of good Cubbing and Scouting.

New Paper at Fox Lake

Eugene M. Fisher, formerly of Franklin Park, Ill., is starting a new newspaper called "The Fox Lake Star" at Fox Lake.

The Fox Lake Times is said to have suspended publication several weeks ago and the Lotus-News is only circulated occasionally, according to reports.

Fisher's paper, printed by the Round Lake Bulletin, will make its first appearance Friday.

Antioch Beat Ela In First Baseball Game Of Season Here 2-1

Antioch High school won its first conference game of the season here Tuesday evening, handing Ela Township High the short end of a 2 to 1 score.

The Sequoits played good ball to overcome the mighty Prouty who chalked up 15 strikeouts for the Bears.

Jack Pregenzer pitched a good game for Antioch allowing but five hits in the seven innings and getting four strikeouts. He won his own game in the first inning by singling after Appanaitis singled, stole second and third and Buzz Haviland walked and stole second. The smash brought in the two runs.

Ela scored one run in the third and started a rally in the sixth filling the bases with but one out.

Ray Luckel stopped it when he caught a fly ball in center and pegged the ball home in time to catch the runner streaking from third retiring the side.

Antioch will play at Barrington Friday and will play Wauconda here the following Tuesday, Coach Richard Scott announced.

Cold weather has produced a poor season for track. Postponed meets have not been re-scheduled so far.

The Sequoits lost to Grant by five points early in the season and did little at the meet at Palatine, only a few making the trip. Coach Maurice Kruzan is a little disappointed in the results of the team's endeavors this year. Wilton has an injury that is keeping him from doing his best and the dash men have not come up to expectations.

There will be a Freshman-Sophomore meet tomorrow with Grant High and the conference meet will be at Bensenville on May 17.

Vo-Ag Stock Judging Team Wins Third Place In Sectional Contest

The fat stock judging team from the Vocational Agriculture Department of the High School placed third in sectional competition last Thursday. The team scored 1929 total points while the first and second place teams scored a tie of 1931 total points.

The boys on the team were: Richard Walberg, Robert Misiek, George Swenson, Gordon Heuer, and Ray Teayes. They were accompanied to the contest by Mr. Wickert. Richard Walberg had the third high individual score with 670 points and Robert Misiek had the eighth high individual score with 658 points.

There were 16 different schools from this section of the state with teams entered in the contest. Each team consisted of 5 members and the members with the three highest score make up the team to represent the school at the state contest on June 13. Richard Walberg, Robert Misiek and George Swenson will represent Antioch at the state contest.

Party at Channel Lake

The Channel Lake Community club has planned a dance and card party for Saturday, May 13, at the Channel Lake school.

It will be an old fashioned party with all of the old time games and dances for those who care to participate. Those in charge are expecting a good crowd and a good time.

"Little Women" Senior Class Play Presented Tonight, Friday Night

Romance, tragedy, comedy and drama are all to be found in the three-act play, "Little Women," which will be presented by the senior class of Antioch High school in the auditorium tonight and Friday night.

The play was obtained from the Northwestern Press and is one of their latest publications. It was adapted by Arthur Jearue, famous playwright, from the celebrated novel by Louisa M. Alcott, and is said to be as refreshing as the novel itself.

"Little Women," as produced by the local cast, and directed by Miss Naomi Meiners, will thrill with its humanness, amuse with its comedy, will make one sad with its tragedy and hopeful with its tender romance. All of the well-known characters are there.

A good crowd is expected both this evening and tomorrow evening.

Gibsons Sell Recreation Lanes to Rederers of Chicago, Take Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gibson have sold the Antioch Recreation to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rederer of Chicago.

The sale of the bowling lane on Main st., which the Gibsons have operated for four and one-half years was completed Monday, but the Gibsons will remain with the new owners for a while.

The retiring owners have made the place a popular recreation center with more than 300 persons participating in league play during the winter. They extended their thanks and appreciation for the treatment afforded them by the community.

The Gibsons plan a short vacation and will continue to make Antioch their home.

The new owners are anticipating the same cordial relation with the public that was extended to the Gibsons.

Eighth Grade Pupils as High School Guests Hear Talk on Hobbies

Eighth grade pupils from eight feeder schools in the Antioch Township High school district were guests of the Student council of the high school last Thursday.

Highlight of the day was the assembly period during which Edwin Rowland of Madison, Wis., discussed hobbies and exhibited photographs of autographs in his outstanding collection.

Of interest to the audience were the "autographs" of the famous race horses, Man of War, and Exterminator. The footprint of Man of War was reproduced from a plaster cast and that of Exterminator from one of his shoes.

Rowland discussed hobbies of others and said that the Hobby of Henry Ford, who he interviewed, was cooking. He urged hobbies as good use of leisure time and a matter of interest.

The grade school pupils who will be freshmen next year, were informed of the nature of their classes and of extra-curricular activities.

Mrs. Phil Lavenduski, of northern Wisconsin, spent the week-end with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Techert.

Radio Stars Headline Separate Programs for Lake Villa Club Show

WLS radio station stars are headlining the two entirely different programs the Lake Villa Community Men's Club will present for their "Sixth Anniversary Follies" next Friday and Saturday nights, May 12 and 13, in the Lake Villa School gymnasium, Grand ave., and Rt. 21 at 8 p. m.

On Friday night Red Blanchard, the famous National Barn Dance comedian, will act as master of ceremonies for a variety two-hour show which will include the Merrow sisters, known professionally as the "Hayloft Duo," Hal Montana, rope twirler and comedian, and Edward Barron, a sensational hypnotist.

Another two-hour show Saturday night will headline Salty Holmes and Mattie, long noted members of WLS Prairie Ramblers, who will provide comedy and music not often seen in Lake county.

With them will be other topflight acts, including Louis Topps, who isn't satisfied with having a trained monkey and a dog, but has a rooster too.

There will be, also, Tom Rainey, the well-known comedian, who has made show business history with medicine-auctioneer pitch. Audiences on the radio and all over the country are testimony to his popularity.

Committee Has Tickets

Tickets for the two-night show are being offered through members of the committee arranging the show. Adults are $1, including tax, and children 50 cents, including tax. The committee is headed by Ben Cribb, and includes William Walker, John Eder, Walter Sorenson, Ed Langbein, W. T. Somers, Arthur Bennett, Lester Hamlin, William Marks, William Grunewald, Michael Shamberger, and Jere Hagen.

Proceeds from the show will be used to benefit several Lake Villa Township projects, notably the revival of the Boy Scout movement and furthering the interests of the Lake Villa Township Library.

According to Jere Hagen, president of the Lake Villa Community Men's Club, there are other projects under serious consideration for which the club hopes that it will have the support of all the Township residents.

"This show will go a long way toward realizing many of the club's aims," he said today.

Ben Cribb, the program chairman, whose committee has been given the loyal support of business men in this area, has told all of these contacted that the idea of having an entirely different show each night should attract more attention than ever to the annual show of the Lake Villa Community Men's Club.

Village Board Meeting Postponed to Monday; Army Calls Secretary

The army messed up village affairs this week.

L. D. Powles, clerk of the board of trustees was suddenly called to Oklahoma City, Okla., to serve two weeks in the U. S. army reserve corps, and will not return until this weekend with village communications, so no meeting of the board was held Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Martha Hunter, treasurer, was also out of town with her daughter, June, in a tour of assemblies of the Order of Rainbow, and could not present her monthly report.

Two trustees also indicated they might be absent.

On the basis of this situation the meeting of the board was postponed to next Monday evening.

Mrs. Caldwell Buried in Chicago

More Food For Less Money

Hundred of farm and business groups have gone on record in opposition to the government's anti-trust suit which is designed to dissolve the nation's largest chain food system. And so have hundreds of newspapers of all shades of economic and political opinion.

This opposition, generally speaking, is based on several points. First, no retail organization has anything even remotely resembling a monopoly—it is in constant competition with other stores, both chain and independent, which are out to get its business if they can. Second, dissolution of the chain would severely harm agricultural and other producers. Third, the effect on the consumer would be extremely damaging.

A typical expression has come from a Florida farm cooperative. It said that the policy initiated by the chain and "now followed by practically all of its competitors, large and small, has enabled the American people to lay their cash on the counter . . . and take away a maximum of good, wholesome, sustaining food." And that same policy, it went on, "has not only enabled farmers to get better prices for more farm products but has also enabled every American citizen to buy more food for less money."

In other words, breaking up this retail system would result in a lower return to the farmer, increased prices to the consumer, and a lower standard of living for millions of people. And the precedent thus established could be used to destroy other businesses which have grown large because they gave good service, reasonable prices, and pleased the public. That is the big issue that stands back of the government's current antitrust action.

The "Fuel" of Freedom

The president of one of the leading oil companies recently spoke on the danger of government control reaching a point where there can be no return to individual freedom. He pointed out that freedom and state control are two "principal fuels that serve to energize people." These "fuels" are in competition today throughout the world.

Going on, he observed that a certain amount of restraint is necessary in all human endeavor—as in a football game where officials are needed to see that the rules are obeyed. Then he said, "Too often, however, regulation gradually becomes control. The officials begin carrying the ball, helping or hindering the players . . . The interest of the state begins to encroach upon areas which I think are the province of the individual . . . The first object of the state, in my opinion, is to protect man's rights and leave him alone to pursue his own aspirations."

The oil industry is one of the best examples of what the "fuel" of freedom can accomplish. Its enormous contributions to the well-being of this country were the result of the work of free men, operating in a free economy. No industry did more to help us win two great wars—and none has done more to expand our living standards. In doing this, the industry naturally made a profit—but that profit was largely paid to the tax collector and for improvements, and was nothing by comparison with the benefits realized by the public at large.

The duty of the state is to act as a referee—never as a player in the game. When we forget that principle, we embark on a road that ends in dictatorship.

Many Problems Barring Rocket Space Journeys

CHICAGO, ILL.—There's no hurry about planning that inter-space rocket flight, folks. There's a lot of kinks to be ironed out in the transportation angle first. At least that's the conclusion of four German rocket experts, now with the American armed forces. They point out that solar radiation, weightlessness and meteors are some of the major obstacles that must be overcome before man can rocket out into inter-stellar space.

They discussed the problems for physicians and military personnel at a symposium space medicine at the University of Illinois professional colleges.

The air force set up a department of space medicine at Randolph field, Texas, at the close of the war.

The German scientists and two American rocket experts gave this version of how a passenger, zooming out beyond the pull of gravity, would fare:

450,000 Miles Per Hour

The space ship would shoot upward at 450,000 miles an hour. A man could survive that burst of speed for the short time necessary to get the rocket into motion. However, a person's nervous system does not react quickly enough for such speed. In the two-tenths of a second required for a passenger to have any conscious reaction, the rocket would then have traveled 25 miles. Electronic engineering, possibly by remote control, might be a solution.

The rocket would streak through the atmosphere so fast its metal skin would heat 1,112 degrees Fahrenheit. Then, out in space, the real trouble would start.

One peril would be meteors that normally burn themselves out when they pass through the earth's atmosphere. Even a tiny meteor, slightly larger than a BB pellet, could plow through the ship, knocking out its cabin pressure. A large meteor would demolish the rocket.

Passengers Weightless

The passengers would undergo an experience no one has even known. They would be weightless. The air around them would be weightless. Without some ventilation system, a warm cloud soon would surround their bodies. Their own breath would be a problem. It would remain out in space in front of them. Any body sweat would create a fog in their compartment.

They would experience strange discomforts. Their hair, having no weight, would stand up. Their clothes would bag oddly.

Solar X-rays from the sun would be another major danger. These X-rays probably would pass through the metal skin of the rocket. If the walls were lined with thin plates of lead to keep the X-rays out, this in itself would cause another radiation danger. Cosmic particles striking these lead plates would create deadly ray showers.

Dr. Wernher Von Braun, a V-2 rocket expert, said rocket fuel now is no problem. He said a three stage rocket 200 feet high and 60 feet in diameter probably could do the job. Such a rocket, he said, probably could be landed with retractable wing and tricycle landing gear.

Hindu Houdini Remains Buried for 87 Hours

BOMBAY.—Huge crowds saw a 45-year-old yogi, Swami Ramdasji, dug out alive from an "airtight" cement crypt where he had been "buried" for 87 hours on a bed of nails.

To make things even tougher, the little man with the big black beard had been "completely submerged" in water until his release after three and one-half days in the coffin-like niche.

Ramdasji climbed into the wooden coffin. He lay on a bed of nails—just like you see in the magazine cartoons—and the sides of the coffin also had nails jutting into his flesh.

The coffin was then sealed inside an eight-by-eight-by-six-foot cement crypt. Ramdasji's disciples then sat by the crypt day and night chanting Hindu vedic prayers while keeping a sacred fire burning. On top of the crypt they placed coconuts and flowers.

Then they bored a small hole into the crypt. But it didn't help the yogi man. Into the hole they pushed a hose from a near-by hydrant and immersed the air-starved Hindu in water.

Many of the thousands of people who rose before dawn to make sure of a ringside seat at the disinterment obviously believed the Swami had bitten off more than he could chew this time.

They watched tensely as his followers hacked the cement away with picks. Then they crawled down to the coffin with blankets. They lifted Ramdasji, still in a Yogi trance and dripping wet, onto a dias where all could see him. They slowly massaged his head, arms and body until he opened his eyes, looked slowly around—and smiled.

Doctors pronounced him all right.

There are a good many fine insurance agencies—with experience and knowledge and services which recommend them highly to the public. How can you tell which ones come under this category? What points the way? There are a number of things. First of all, good agents represent good insurance companies. Next, the good agent is always anxious to render services which are unusual but essential to the insurance welfare of his policyholders. He knows how to build a good insurance program. He is not after just the expiration dates on your present policies. He is willing to advise first, before you buy.

DREAM COMES TRUE

Boy Given Clown Role

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Once upon a time there was a boy who wanted to be a circus clown. And suddenly he was.

That's no fairy story—it actually happened right here in Milwaukee.

The boy was James Miller, nine years old. His mother knew circus man Omar Kenyon, so when the circus came to town for the Shrine benefit performance, she asked Kenyon how about Jimmy becoming a clown in the circus. It was okay, the man said.

Jimmy's father took him out to eat and then they went to the Auditorium. Jimmy had known that he was going to be a clown since the night before. He didn't sleep much. The Millers went up to clown alley, a dressing room above the Auditorium stage, and there they met the clowns.

There was Sa-So, the boss clown, who was born in the Ringling Brothers circus, started to be a clown at 13 and had been at it for 37 years. There was Billy Rice and Billy Hudson, who don't know how old they are, except it's over 65. Charles Lewis and his son, Earl, who is only 21. Roy and Joy Lewis, a married couple. And Slim Collins, long, lean and sad.

Puts on Clown White

Up in clown alley, Jimmy's father helped pull on a clown suit that was too big for him and a pair of artificial bare feet that were even bigger.

Then Sa-So put clown white—zinc oxide—on Jimmy's face. He peppered Jimmy's face with a powder sock. He made lines on Jimmy's cheeks and above his eyes with grease paint.

"It's the first time I ever made up anybody but myself," said the putty nosed clown.

"Can I look at myself?" Jimmy kept asking.

A ruffle around Jimmy's neck and a red, stringy wig and sailor cap on Jimmy's head, and he was a full fledged clown.

Herman Miller suggested that the funny feet were too big for Jimmy to walk in.

"I want to wear 'em," Jimmy said.

Jimmy crouched in front of a mirror, looked at himself, and made happy sounds. The other clowns gathered for a peek, too.

Trick Explained

Sa-So explained a trick he wanted Jimmy to help him do—a trick in which clowns are put into a tube and come out as an American flag.

Someone suggested a rehearsal. "The first time's sufficient," said the boss clown. "Come on now. You can't stay up here. You've got work to do."

Sa-So and Jimmy, the clown, went down the steps and into the audience.

"They've got a new clown," said a circus hand.

"It's a midset," a circus fan explained knowingly.

Jimmy made a couple of turns around the arena. He shook hands with children and patted bald headed men on their heads. He and Sa-So did their flag trick and it went off without a hitch.

The other clowns got into the act and finally they got into one of the rings with Sa-So and Jimmy. Sa-So worked the audience for applause, going from one side to the other and cupping his ears.

All the clowns got down on their knees and salaamed to the side of the audience that made the most noise. Jimmy the clown got the idea, and he salaamed, too.

'Letting off Steam' Held Good for Person's Nerves

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Doctors are just about agreed that it is good for the average individual to "blow his top" every now and then—for by so doing he lets off emotional steam which does him no good if kept tightly bottled up.

Doctors, according to many reports, are much concerned with tension—its causes, results and relief. Psychiatrists' offices are filled with people who have been driven to illness by the problems and challenges of modern living.

"How can ordinary men and women who do not need psychiatrists, who only occasionally find themselves in a state of nerves, regain their serenity?" one writer asks. Doctors advise them to learn to blow their tops. They do not advocate a complete and continual lack of self-control. Instead they believe there is a time and place for such healing outbursts.

"On the debit side of the ledger," she continues, "are the examples concerning the wrong time. There are the people who have 'told off the boss'—and lost good jobs in the process. There are the ones who sassed the cop who arrested them for speeding—and wound up in jail.

"Modern mental hospitals have installed punching bags and other equipment for violent exercise for their patients' use. Science now knows that discharging tension through bodily activity is good mental hygiene.

Truffles

Sows Are 'Bloodhounds'

PARIS, FRANCE.—There is a group of living creatures which has never had the rewards for its service to humanity properly standardized.

These creatures are females of the pig family which, in bloodhound fashion, locate that delicacy of luxury-laden tables—the truffle.

The truffle—a sort of undernourished mushroom used chiefly for a garnishing or a dressing, but of such superb odor and inspiring taste that it throws diners into ecstasies—belongs to the region of France east of Bordeaux and known as Perigord. Farmers in sabots go out with their skilled sows to hunt for truffles.

A highly sensitive pig, it is said, when brought to a woods where youngish oak trees are growing, will march, straight as an arrow, to a spot in the leaf mold above the clay, apply its snout to the work of excavation and in a little less than no time reward the wooden shoed owner with a succulent truffle.

Never does a well trained pig make any effort to consume the delicacy it has brought from the earth. It simply lays the treasure at the master's feet.

And now comes the reward. We find in a French reader for children that the master gives the pig a piece of bread for each truffle. In an encyclopedia we read that the reward is a piece of cheese, and in a garden book, that the pig's master gives it an acorn or a chestnut.

Is such a wage for highly skilled labor sufficient? In case you doubt that this prospecting for truffles is "highly skilled labor," remember that there are said to be a very few human beings, say one in 10,000, who are also endowed with such sensitive nostrils as to detect the odor of a truffle below the ground. In England, terriers are trained for the duty, and in Sardinia, goats.

Only One in Five Of Bus Passengers Found Truly Honest

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—How honest is the average bus rider?

To find out, two psychology students at the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee "planted" wallets 100 times in city busses. The pocketbooks contained no money but carried personal papers and full identification of the owner.

Here's what happened:

Wallet taken to bus driver—59 times.

Wallet brought to owner's home—eight times.

Wallet kept—19 times.

Wallet inspected, then put back on seat—14 times.

The student experimenters did the work as part of the sophomore psychology class requirements. The objective was not so much results as learning the methods of psychological research.

The experimenters, with the knowledge of the bus driver, placed wallets surreptitiously on seats, as if they had been dropped, when the buses were nearly empty. Then they waited in the back of the bus to see what would happen.

Their report contained two generalizations:

Boys from 16 years old down tended to keep the wallets, not return them.

Persons traveling in groups were more apt to take the wallets to the driver than persons traveling alone. The students attributed this to force of group opinion, not necessarily to individual honesty.

Well dressed and poorly dressed persons seemed to have about the same ratio of honesty, the students found.

They did not experiment with purses containing money. Bus drivers told them the chances of getting money back would be slim. Most wallets taken to the bus drivers contain little or no cash, the students were told.

Liking for People Seen Success Hint for Girls

WASHINGTON, D. C. — What's wrong with girls? What's holding them back? "Plenty," says a woman who ought to know.

Men call her one of the most successful and most attractive to hit the Washington official scene in many a year. She's worked with girls back home in her native Kansas and right here in the nation's capital where she is the new custodian of Uncle Sam's money bags.

Now the first woman to be treasurer of the United States, Georgia Neese Clark likes women. She likes to work with them, too—and so, by perfect right, the soap box was all hers from there on in.

She confesses she likes men, too, and likes to work with them. And do men like her! Bernard Baruch, the elder statesman of Wall street and the atom bomb, had met her at a party and the first thing next day dispatched an admiring note to her. Baruch assured her that it was refreshing to find a woman of her brains with her charm and good looks in public life.

"She's got what it takes," another man said.

Bygone Byword

Even in 1883, "Where did you get that hat?" was a favorite remark directed to anyone wearing an odd-looking chapeau. In that year the question was asked in a play written by Joseph Sullivan entitled, "Where Did You Get That Hat?" The phrase soon became a popular byword.

Nice Combination

Whole kernel corn may be combined with cabbage, red pimiento, and green pepper for salad.

Tip to Farmers

It is good business for farmers to buy some United States savings bonds each month of the year.

Judging Fish

Fresh fish can be identified by bright, clear, full and bulging eyes; reddish-pink gills; scales that stick tightly to the skin and are brightly colored with a characteristic sheen; and firm and elastic flesh.

SHORT STORY

No Job Wanted

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

IT WAS SNOWING when Guy started over the pass. The filling station attendant at Jackson had warned him against it, but Guy had only smiled crookedly. It was early May and snow storms of any consequence didn't happen in May, not even in the high country. Besides, the way he felt, it wouldn't make much difference if anything did happen to him. Not even if he perished in the drifts or froze to death. Death would solve all his problems. It would be a relief from worry and hopelessness and bleak despair.

Foolish though for a young man 25 years old. But young men can sometimes become pretty wild and desperate in their thoughts. Guy remembered Mr. Moore's cynical smile. "Sorry, son, we haven't a place for you. Full up."

"But not good reporters. I've had experience, Mr. Moore. I'm a good writer. I always scrape up a new angle to a story that makes interesting reading. Besides—" There was desperation in Guy's tone, because Mr. Moore had begun shuffling papers on his desk. "When I wrote inquiring about a job you said you'd be glad to talk to me."

He had driven all the way up from Denver—1,000 miles—because Mr. Moore had said he'd talk to him. It had taken nearly his last dollar to buy enough gas to make the trip. Now he had nothing left but the 5-year-old car. Just about enough to get him back home, from which he'd started out six months ago, bound and determined to land a job on a newspaper.

Toward noon Guy understood why the filling station man had warned him. The snow formed an impenetrable wall. The wind was rising and it was colder. Now he was stuck.

Hours passed. Twice Guy thought he heard someone call. The third time he roused up. Through the slanting curtain of snow he saw a figure floundering toward him. He got out. The man was nearly exhausted; his face frost bitten.

Guy got him inside the car and turned on the heater full, speeding up the motor. Presently the man looked at him wild-eyed. "My wife! She's sick. We're stuck—up the road."

Guy thought quickly. There was the shack. Apparently the man had passed it in the storm. It must be close by. At any rate, it was their only chance.

AFTERWARD, Guy wondered how he'd found the shack, or what it was that kept him going when the desire to lie down and sleep and forget everything was so strong. It was all like a dream—the way he'd stumbled against the shack itself, found the door and fell inside. He remembered that the wind and cold were shut out. Then he remembered the sick woman.

The place he'd found was a road camp. There was a stove and wood and a few cans of food on the shelf. He got a fire going and placed water on to boil. Then he lunged out into the storm again, fought his way down the road and found the stranger's car. He half carried, half dragged the woman up to the shack, and left her there near the stove.

When he awoke Mr. Moore was standing by his bed. "Feeling better, son? Good. How about a story on your experiences? That man you saved was Senator Ostrander."

"The lady wasn't his wife at all. See what I mean? You want a job and we want a story, because Ostrander is on the opposition ticket. Here's your chance, boy."

Guy closed his eyes. Well, why not? he thought. After all, a man has to live, has to look out for himself. Why not? Why not? The thought kept pounding against his brain. Then he opened his eyes.

"Sorry," he said. "Sorry, that isn't the kind of job I'm after."

Verne Heath, of Channel Lake is attempting to organize and promote a Horseshoe club.

He believes that there are many in the area who thrill to the clink of the steel around the stake if they can be drawn together.

Heath says the village park on Main street should provide a good place if the village officials will permit its use for that purpose and that good entertainment will be provided for those who engage in the age-old sport and spectators as well.

SHORT STORY Ina's Revenge

By Richard III Wilkinson

"I'M GOING TO GET EVEN with that man if it's the last thing I do!" Ina Carlton's eyes were blazing, cheeks flushed.

"I presume," said Marlene Dale, "that you refer to Boylston's famous bachelor, Phil Bacon?"

"You know very well whom I mean! You were there. You saw him snub me. Right in front of all those other girls! Oh, I can still see their hideous, laughing faces!"

Marlene sat down on the edge of the divan. "You're a little idiot to act this way, Ina. And you're not playing fair with Phil. He didn't snub you. He merely treated you as he does all the other girls in town. We all like him, we'd all like to know him better. The fact that he's trying to stay a bachelor until he gets his real estate business built up, doesn't justify your anger."

"This from her best friend, was small consolation. Ina began to scheme for revenge. Secretly she loved Phil Bacon.

An idea came abruptly. It took form slowly, but by the time she had reached home, she had formed a definite plan.

Early the next morning Ina entered the office of Phil Bacon & Co. Phil, good looking, friendly, greeted his visitor warmly, though with a certain reserve.

"Good morning," said Ina brightly. "I'm Ina Carlton. Perhaps you remember that we were introduced two days ago at Mrs. Whipple's party."

"Indeed I do remember, Miss Carlton. Is there anything I can do?"

His business-like tones were discouraging. "Yes, there is. You see, we have a piece of property—an old house—out on the Mendon road. Last night father decided to dispose of it and asked me to drop in and see you about the matter."

Phil's eyes shone. "Miss Carlton, I believe I can dispose of that property for you within two days. A man was in here yesterday and asked about it. Do you think $10,000 would suit your father?"

"I think," said Ina, "that would be fine."

Phil smiled. "I'll get in touch with my prospect today. And," he looked deep into her eyes, "I'm mighty grateful to you for this opportunity Miss Carlton."

"I'm glad," said Ina. "of the opportunity to help you."

INA LEFT the real estate office and went in search of Marlene. She felt the need of congenial company. But Marlene wasn't home, and so she strolled out on the Mendon road. Her thoughts were disturbed.

The seriousness of what she had done, now that her anger had cooled, began to develop in her mind. After all, she thought, it was only her own selfishness that prompted the idea.

By the time she had reached the old colonial house, Ina had about made up her mind to swallow her pride and confess to Phil.

She shuddered at the thought, and then suddenly her heart ceased.

"Don't you see? Father doesn't own this place! It was a mean, silly trick, I'm sorry."

beating. Phil's roadster was in the drive. Moreover, there was Phil himself talking with a stranger in the front yard.

Ina ran up the drive. Phil turned at the sound of her cry, left his companion and came to meet her.

"Phil—Mr. Bacon! Don't let him buy! Don't! You'll be arrested," She was breathless. "I wanted to get revenge because you snubbed me, so I—"

Phil stared at her. "I don't believe I understand."

"Don't you see! Father doesn't own this place! I merely said he did so you'd sell it and get in trouble with the real owner. It was a mean, silly trick. I'm sorry."

Phil's features relaxed, "Why, I'm glad you told me, Ina—Miss Carlton. And about that snubbing, too. I really wanted to know you better; but—well, it didn't seem possible that such a pretty girl would be interested in me."

"But—but then you haven't sold the house?"

"Well, not exactly. I bought it myself a week ago. That man you see up there is my architect. I was explaining to him some changes I wanted made."

Child of Three Is Now Wearing False Teeth Set

MILWAUKEE, WIS. — A plump little boy in a dentist's chair ran his tongue over a full set of false teeth and announced he was all set to try them out.

"I'll have pickles and everything—a-n-d bacon," Ronald Adamiak, three years old, told a roomful of students and instructors at Marquette university dental school.

They'd gathered to see Ronald, outfitted with the dentures, prepared at the school after "rampant decay" had forced extraction of all his baby teeth. Ronald had suffered some sleepless nights because of the teeth, every one of which was diseased. The last tooth came out a month ago.

He's the Youngest

Ronald "positively" is the youngest child in Milwaukee and one of the youngest anywhere to wear full dentures, according to Dr. John M. Frankel, director of the children's dentistry department.

"Do they feel good?" he was asked.

"Uh huh."

"Don't you take them out now unless your mother or daddy say so," he was admonished.

"Uncle Rhine takes his out," the boy replied.

"That," said Dr. Frankel, "is going to be the big problem. His playmates will want to try them. His parents will have to give him the idea that the teeth are a secret and he shouldn't talk about them. Otherwise the teeth are apt to get broken or lost."

Policeman Caught Doing Preaching, Less Practicing

KENOSHA, WIS.—For months Kenosha police had been haranguing the public about leaving ignition keys in parked cars.

About four o'clock one morning, while Patrolmen Laurence Semrau and Glen Smith were having a snack at a diner, some scoundrel made off with their squad car.

The patrolmen sheepishly admitted they had left the ignition key in the lock. The car was found an hour and 20 minutes later in a cemetery.

Detectives glowered suspiciously at local newspaper reporters who vigorously denied any connection with the incident.

The reporters, since the start of the ignition key campaign, had been checking up on the squad cars, and had found the policemen preaching more than practicing.

Police agreed that if reporters found ignition keys in police cars, they could drive such cars back to the police station, but added that the newsmen might run the risk of being shot by the rightful drivers.

This warning, said the reporters, was sufficient.

Grid Star's Flying Dive Saves Girl From Bandit

ST. LOUIS, MO. — A Washington university football player used a flying tackle to rescue his girl friend from a masked man. James Greig, 190-pound athlete, braved gunfire to tackle the man, then beat him and delivered him to police.

Neither Greig, 23, nor his companion, Charlotte Obst, 19, was injured. The masked man was identified as Kendall Leonard Morris, a former convict.

Police said Greig gave this account:

"Greig and Miss Obst were seated in a car when the man pointed a gun at them and forced Greig to drive to a side road. He took Greig's wallet and told Miss Obst, 'Either you get in the car with me or else.' Miss Obst snatched off the mask and the man started pulling her up the road.

"They must have backed up 25 yards," Greig said. "Then I heard her shove him and call my name. I took off. It was dark and I couldn't see them.

"He fired. I don't know where the bullets went. Then I got a glimpse of her light coat and saw him standing near by, gun in hand. I made a flying tackle. I knew it had to be good."

Color Injected in Eggs Results in Colored Chicks

VINELAND, N. J.—A batch of 140 eggs, injected with colors, has produced 27 chicks with coats of pink, green and deep yellow. Others of the 50 eggs in the batch that reached the hatching stage were normal. The rest failed to mature.

What will become of the unusual chicks now that they are hatched was the problem of Mrs. Aya Mary Kiss, Cleveland, Ohio, who had injected the coloring into the eggs in hopes of selling colored chicks for Easter.

The rainbow-colored chicks seemed normal in every way and were just as lively as their drabber cousins. The government-approved dyes which were used seemed to have no effect on their vitality.

Mrs. Kiss holds a patent on the process in which colors are injected into the eggs by hypodermic needle. The punctures then are sealed and the eggs incubated.

BRIGHT NEW TOUCH TO A BIG BOLD BEAUTY

See something new here? That's right—the gleaming sweepers now adorn the fenders of this ROADMASTER Riviera Sedan. An extra touch of distinction that's yours as a standard item.

What's the secret of the "UNRUFFLED" RIDE?

SOME car makers say springs make the ride—and so we give every Buick four of the soft, gentle coil springs practically all cars use on front wheels only.

Some say the drive is important—how power is transmitted to the rear wheels.

We agree—and use a torque-tube drive, that takes up all the thrust, freeing rear springs of driving pulsation.

Some stress tires—so you'll find low-pressure casings on every Buick, mounted on our own kind of Safety-Ride rims. Some play up shock absorbers—we make ours fast, soft and sure in action, to wash out all "after-bounce."

Then there are frames—and car weight—and engine mountings, which on Buick are a very special kind used nowhere else.

They're all important—yet the plain truth is no one of these things—or two or three—gives a ride you can truly call "unruffled."

We feel it takes all of them—springs, tires, shock absorbers, drive, engine mountings—carefully and precisely brought into balance with each other.

You can see why we think so in any Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER.

You can feel it on cobblestones and car tracks, washboard gravel and weather-pocked macadam, country lane and city street. You even feel it on boulevards, which grow still smoother when you travel them in a Buick—especially when it has Dynaflo Drive!

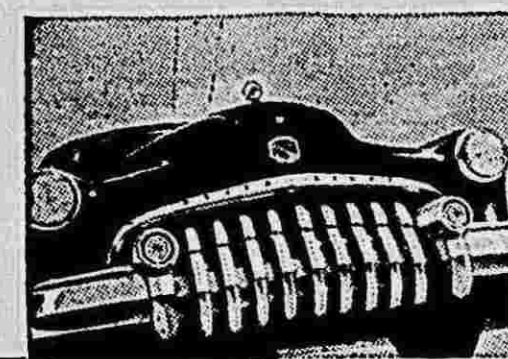

So we would like you to try a ride that is truly "unruffled." Free of harshness—undisturbed by jounce and jitter—level—steady-going—smooth.

Just ask any Buick dealer for a chance to try out any Buick: You'll find it "the ride of a lifetime"—and the buy of a lifetime too!

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

FOUR-WAY FOREFRONT

This rugged front end (1) sets the style note, (2) saves on repair costs—vertical bars are individually replaceable, (3) avoids "locking horns," (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

Only Buick has Dynaflo—and with it goes!

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.)
NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

Glass-Making
Evidence that glass-making was the first industry established by the English colonists in America has been brought to light in excavations on Jamestown Island, Va., the Department of Interior announced recently. The first permanent English settlement, Jamestown got its first industry 17 months after its establishment in 1607 when the Virginia Co. of London sent workmen to make glass, records show. Uncovered in the digging were four furnaces, crucible pots and pieces of glass.

Largest Bell
The world's largest bell, weighing about 200 tons, is the "Tsar Kolokol" at Moscow. Cast in 1733, it is 20 feet high and 21½ feet in diameter, and stands on a granite pedestal inside the Kremlin walls. An 11-ton chunk broke from its mouth a few years after it was cast, leaving an entrance to the bell's interior which in Tsarist days served at times as a chapel.

HEALTH HINTS
FOR LIVESTOCKPREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTHERYSIPELAS TAKES ON VARIED FORMS

Many fine droves of swine are ruined because owners delay in finding out just what is wrong with their hogs.

For example, two or three lame pigs in a drove or a few with big leg joints, curling ears or bob tails may not seem at all serious. But more often than not, these simple symptoms may be the outward signs of a herd infection caused by germs borne swine erysipelas—a sudden flare with serious losses may follow.

Swine erysipelas, perhaps more often than almost any other livestock disease, may appear in a masked or so-called "atypical" form. It can kill a pig without the animal having appeared sick. Or, it may cause an affected hog to linger on for months without normal gain or growth. And the disease is further confusing because some outbreaks of erysipelas may look much like true hog cholera.

Of course, the answer to cholera and erysipelas are entirely different. In some localities cholera may not have appeared for years, whereas erysipelas may be a more or less recurring problem. Yet hog cholera can jump over wide distances very unexpectedly. And, when that happens, the farmer who makes a quick conclusion that the disease is erysipelas, is in for some very serious losses. Similarly, if cholera is suspected, and erysipelas is the real offender, the losses can be heavy.

There is only one safe rule when symptoms appear, like those mentioned above. A prompt veterinary diagnosis can determine the true condition, and help save needless deaths.
